

Richard D. McLellan Prizes

Students from schools such as Calvin University, Catholic University of America, the University of Chicago, Columbia University, Harvard University, Hillsdale College, Hope College, the University of Louisville, Michigan State University, the University of Michigan, the University of Virginia, among many others, regularly travel to the Kirk Center for an education in conservatism—or benefit from Kirk Center programs on campus.

Led by CEO Dr. Jeffrey O. Nelson, the Kirk Center has a network of more than 200 expert faculty, teachers, journalists, and professionals who contribute to the Center’s reputation for academic excellence. Dr. Luke S. Sheahan, editor of the Kirk Center’s publication, The University Bookman, is a nationally recognized expert in the area of Freedom of Speech and Expression. Former Michigan Governor John Engler will guide the Prizes project as a member of the Kirk Center’s Board of Trustees.

